Time Frame for Roosevelt Center Market Study Set

by Judy Bell

Approximately 25 people, mostly merchants and shop-owners in Roosevelt Center, turned out at the June 5 city council work session to hear Josef Nathanson, president of Urban Information Associates, Inc., a Baltimore-based community/economic development consultant group, announce that he and his associates will be conducting a market study in Roosevelt Center this summer.

A $25,000 federal grant has been awarded to the consultant group to conduct the Roosevelt Center market study. According to City Manager Michael McLaughlin, the purpose of the project is to determine the future of the Center.

Nathanson described himself as an urban and regional planner. Janet Goldberg, a consultant with the firm, has a background in commercial real estate, with an overlay of community development and planning. The survey will be conducted by Goldberg, who will deal with both the business owners and the shoppers at the center.

Another consultant, Pete Carney, former owner and operator of the Bethesda Theater Cafe, has a background as an urban and regional planner. He will focus on the Old Greenbelt Theatre in the study.

Nathanson presented a project time line of three phases. Phase I takes place in June, with the June 5 work session serving as the initial stakeholders' meeting. Preparation time for the survey is included in Phase I, with its design scheduled for completion by the end of June. During July and August, Phase 2 involves conducting the survey and completing a market analysis. Phase 3, planned for September and October, is reserved for additional stakeholders' meetings and development of a strategy.

Nathanson said, "We will be looking at regional trends, the overall market environment of

Brandenburg Will Lead Kids' Band This Summer

Greenbelt's musical kids will be flocking to the Community Center this summer to play in the new Greenbelt Summer Kids' Band, directed by Jill Brandenburg. The Greenbelt Recreation Department is offering four two-week sessions of band, beginning June 24. Kids ages eight to 10 will meet from 4:30 to 5:10 p.m., Monday through Friday, and kids ages 11 and up will meet from 5:20 to 6:00 p.m. Brandenburg, who recently received her master of music education degree from the University of Maryland, enjoys working with young students. "I love their enthusiasm and the excitement they bring to learning new things," she said.

Brandenburg is a familiar, smiling face to many Greenbelt kids, because she was the camp manager for last summer's Creative Kids Camp. She'll be teaching music for the camp this summer as well as directing the Summer Kids' Band. Brandenburg thinks the band will play an important role in keeping kids excited about music. "Kids often put their instruments aside during the summer, which makes it harder when they return to school in the fall. In the less formal setting of summer band, they can continue to improve their skills while having a lot of fun," she said.

In addition to teaching band, Brandenburg gives piano lessons and is a versatile musician. She has played trombone in various jazz groups, and developed an interest in non-western music while in graduate school. Brandenburg currently plays in Gamelon Mitra Kusuma, a Balinese ensemble, whose instruments includes gongs, drums, and the metallophone (similar to the xylophone). Another fascinating instrument is the reyong, a rack of many gongs that requires four persons to play.

"Music brings so much to young people's lives," said Brandenburg. One of her young piano students, when told that Brandenburg had run out of the stickers she usually hands out as rewards for practicing, said to her, "That's okay. Music is enough for me. It makes me happy." Brandenburg smiled at the recollection. "Kids remind us of how we should be living our lives," she said.

Registration for Summer Kids' Band is open to brass and woodwind players ages eight and up. There is a fee. For information, call 301-397-2208.

Redistricting Plan Deemed Unconstitutional

The redistricting plan devised by Maryland Governor Parris Glendening was declared unconstitutional on Tuesday, June 11 by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The court plans to hire consultants to help prepare its own plan. The judges found that the governor's plan did not adequately take into consideration natural and political boundaries such as counties and municipalities.

Whether a further delay in the deadline for filing to run for office will be needed is not known. The filing deadline has already been moved from July 1 to July 8.

Fourteen lawsuits had been filed challenging the governor's plan.

Blood Is Now In Short Supply

For the first time in two years, the Red Cross in this area has issued an emergency appeal for blood. A shortage exists throughout the country with now less than a one-day supply of most blood types. A three-day inventory is the minimum level required. Call 1-800-GIVE LIFE to donate blood. For blood drive information, visit www.redcrosscmd.org.

The Greenbelt Recreation Department will hold its next blood drive on Friday, June 21 from Noon to 6 p.m. in the Municipal Building. Call 1-800-448-3543 to make an appointment.

June Focuses On Pedestrian Safety Month

The city of Greenbelt partners with the State Highway Administration to promote pedestrian safety in June. On streets and roads without sidewalks, pedestrians, for safety's sake, should walk on the left. Walking left, one can see oncoming traffic and possibly avoid being hit. This is also easier on drivers who then don't have to worry about someone with their back to them stepping in front of them. Remember, drive right, walk left. The life you save may be your own.

County Has Not Decided Fate of Paid Firefighters

by Marat Moore

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department (GVFD) still has four paid firefighters on duty for daytime fire and rescue calls, but that number could drop to zero if county fire officials decide to transfer firefighters to other areas of Prince George's County.

Ronald Blackwell, the county's fire chief, attended the May 29 work session of the Greenbelt City Council and fielded a barrage of questions from the Four Cities Coalition, including city leaders from College Park, Berwyn Heights, and New Carrollton, as well as Greenbelt. The coalition also wanted to explore alternatives with Blackwell for finding more funds for firefighters without reducing coverage in the affected communities.

Greenbelt fire chief Randy Krob went straight to the point. "My only question is, where do we stand?"

Blackwell told the group that he intended to "proceed cautiously" in making staffing changes, but offered little hope that transfers could be avoided. He said limited resources had forced him to consider moving paid firefighters from areas with greater volunteer fire service coverage, including Greenbelt and Branchville, to parts of the county with inadequate coverage. He will make the final decision in consultation with County Executive Wayne Curry.

"My responsibility is to cover the entire county," he said, and added that changes were being considered in areas with a "stable and reliable" volunteer leadership. City officials responded that communities with active, committed volunteers were penalized by that approach.

Blackwell insisted that Greenbelt's four firefighters would not be "lost," only "moved."

Council Okays New Budget, Police Get Bigger Pensions

by Sandy Smith

After one more public hearing, a decision to switch to a new, better-paying retirement plan for Greenbelt police officers; and negotiations on how to pay for this change, the Greenbelt City Council passed an FY 2003 budget of $16,870,800 at its meeting on June 10. There was unanimous agreement by council-members and by all who testified that the city should move from the current retirement plan under the Municipal Corporation Law Enforcement Officers (MCLEO) plan to a different one from the Law Enforcement Officers Pension System (LEOPS). The MCLEO plan results in a retirement benefit of about 30 percent of salary as contrasted with that under LEOPS, in which police officers retiring after 25 years will receive 50 percent of their salaries.

Council had earlier identified small changes in most of the budget categories. These were accepted with little or no discussion; however, there was much discussion on various possible ways to offset the additional funds required for the more generous retirement package.

There was a virtual alphabet soup of proposals, with proposal A deferring a change in the retirement plan to Proposals B through H, which included the LEOPS payment but included or excluded a new police cruiser and another red light camera and kept or eliminated deferred compensation or matching funds. Council-members Rodney Roberts and Alan Turnbull argued for paying for all of the increase upfront and dealing with it in a "straightforward manner" this year. Mayor Judith Davis and Councilmember Thomas White preferred what they termed a more balanced approach with additional offsets this year and consideration for the impact on the taxpayer. The final plan approved eliminated one cruiser for this year, added one additional red light camera and reduced the city's 5 percent contribution to police officers' deferred compensation plan to 2.5 percent, while maintaining the 2.5 percent matching contribution.

City Manager Michael McLaughlin quickly calculated the effect of the various proposals on the city tax rate. With the 0.4-cent increase earlier approved, the final budget will result in a 2.8-cent increase on each $100 of assessed property value. For a $100,000 house, this would amount to about $28 a year.

Letters to the Editor

Many, Many Thanks

Congratulations to the outgoing PTA officers at Greenbelt Elementary School - Rebecca Roper, president; Bruce Cole, vice-president; secretary - Diane Siegel; and treasurer, Brenda Jayne.

As stated in a recent PTA newsletter, the PTA has provided "a place where parents and students are offered a chance to voice their concerns, and to come together as a school family." The principal, Kathy Curl, and the vice-principal, Paulette Watkins, actively participate at the PTA meetings to address concerns and provide information.

The PTA's major accomplishments include a wonderful and well-attended multi-cultural dinner (over 300 people, 2 years in a row), Family Fun Day, volunteer recruitment, a year-long string of successful fund-raisers (including the Labor Day book sale), the book fair and book donations to the school, lunch for the teachers during National Teachers' Appreciation Week, trips for the 3rd and 5th graders after MSPAP testing, and a marquee for the school grounds (to be installed next month).

Their smaller but important accomplishments include providing cookies and juice after the honor roll assemblies, treats for the students who were "caught being good," clothes for the health room, extra money for the music and physical education departments, savings bonds for two graduating 6th graders, and $25 for supplies to one of the teachers who attends a monthly PTA meeting.

These four PTA officers have made a major difference in Greenbelt Elementary School - for the parents, the students, and the faculty. They truly deserve the community's appreciation.

New Volunteers Needed for New Deal

Now is the time for all old

City Notes

The horticulture crew watered landscaping and 79 young trees around the city, completed mulching along Southway, weeded and pruned, repaired irrigation at three city buildings, and removed a dead cherry tree from Gardenway and Crescent and a tree on Lakeview Circle.

The parks crew collected trash and litter; continued work on the Wetlands Center; continued building new benches for the playground area at the Lake Park; delivered picnic tables for the weekend; cut grass; repaired mowers; and prepared soccer, softball and baseball fields for league play.

The cleaning crew performed routine cleaning of all city buildings and attended in-house safety training.

Greenbelters (all Greenbelters) to come to the aid of . . . the New Deal Café! Our co-op café needs HELP! Such a good place to get that a.m. java and chocolate croissant, lunch Saturday and Sunday, breakfast, get something cool to drink, eat dinner and listen to music. Did you come out last Saturday? Sit outside for a great day and evening of music and enjoy our Center? Sponsored by the New Deal and the city - really a pleasant way to enjoy our town.

However, due to excessively high rent and back debt, our co-op café is really just teetering on the brink all the time. Last weekend, when so many people came and enjoyed food and drink at the café was a great help, but these outside shows are just scheduled once a month in good weather.

It's time now for a volunteer force again, like in the beginning over in the Community Center - when it seemed we took turns being the customers or being the dishwasher. Now we do have a much-valued, really wonderful and loyal staff. But there really are times when volunteers need to fill in on the work schedule too - as a factor in this delicate equation that keeps the doors open.

People are needed who could come by for an hour during one weekday lunch to operate the cash register. It is easy to learn to do the register and fun to see people. There is need for backup for the volunteer who does shopping one day a week. Maybe washing dishes while listening to the café entertainment would be fun for someone? There are more things to do like cooking, helping weekends, etc.

Please, it really is fun and The New Deal really needs you! Sign up at the Café or call me the "volunteer" volunteer coordinator. And at the very least, remember to come enjoy your New Deal Café.

Heights, said that the county may have those firefighters, but the communities don't.

Critical Hours

Greenbelt's volunteer fire-fighters, who juggle full-time jobs, are not able to adequately cover the critical hours between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m., said Jay Remenick, GVFD president.

Mayor Judith Davis noted that the town's population swells from 21,000 to about 65,000 in the daytime. "The numbers of people go up during the hours when we will have no paid firefighters." Coalition members told Blackwell that they were concerned that he and County Executive Curry did not have sufficient information to make an informed decision. The Berwyn Heights fire department has no water pumper, and the area's daytime demographics reportedly were not considered.

"We're concerned about response times," said Ron Shane, a Berwyn Heights councilmember.

Local fire departments already feel the pressure of emergency response to major commuter highways, the University of Maryland, large federal facilities, including NASA Goddard, Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, the federal courthouse, and the National Archives, and numerous office buildings. Eighty percent of the emergency calls to local fire departments are ambulance calls.

The county now has 636 paid firefighters, below the authorized "full complement" of 696. But even that "full complement" of 696 firefighters is too low, said Del. James Hubbard (D-Dist. 23) of Bowie.

1990 Numbers

"That number is based on 1990 demographics. We probably need around 850," he said.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts described the situation as urgent. "We're in a wartime situation," he said, "and we live near all kinds of facilities with hazardous materials."

Roberts and other coalition members expressed their desire to work with Blackwell to help him find more resources for county fire services.

County councilmember Audrey Scott said that the council had attempted to dedicate more funds to the fire department. She said the council had asked the county executive for an additional $1 million for fire service needs, and said Curry refused.

Correction

In last week's article, "Photographers Document Their Take on Greenbelt," photographer Burcu Karagol-Ayan's name was misspelled. The News Review regrets the error.

Clarification

Several lines were omitted from last week's page one article "Emergency Preparedness Plan Accepted by Council." The complete text reads as follows: Master Police Officer Scott Kaiser presented council with a two-year summary of accidents involving pedestrians and talked about the department's upcoming campaign on pedestrian safety.

From January 2000 until May 2002, there were 28 pedestrian accidents in Greenbelt. Fault was split evenly between pedestrians and drivers in 24 accidents, and the fault was not determined in four others.

School Age Moves Back One Month

by Mary Moien

The Maryland State Board of Education has announced that it has changed the birth dates that designate when children can start prekindergarten and kindergarten. Currently children can start prekindergarten if they are 4 years old by December 31 and start kindergarten if they are 5 years old by that date. The change in birth dates will be phased in over several years, with the preschool change going into effect for this fall and the kindergarten change going into effect in 2003.

Preschool

Starting this fall, prekindergarten students must be four years old by November 30, 2002. In 2003, the date will be October 31; in 2004, it will be September 30; and by 2005, preschoolers must be four years old by September 1 to start class.

Kindergarten

For kindergarten students, the birth date change will begin to take effect in fall 2003, not this year. Starting in fall 2003, kindergartners must be five years old by November 30; in 2004 the date will be October 31; in 2005 it will be September 30; and finally by 2006 and thereafter, children must be five by September 1 to begin kindergarten.

The Maryland Kindergarten Committee, a panel of educators and parents proposed the change. Following hearings, it was adopted. Maryland State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick stated: "It is our goal that students enter Maryland schools ready to learn, and this measure is an important step in that direction."

Exceptions

Local school boards may adopt regulations permitting a four-year-old student to be admitted to kindergarten at the request of the parent if the system determines that the child demonstrates the capabilities warranting early admission. In addition, a parent can request that the child wait one additional year before beginning kindergarten.

Obituaries

Thomas Joseph McAndrew, Sr.

Longtime resident Thomas "Tom" J. McAndrew, Sr., of 2-M Eastway, died on Tuesday, June 4, 2002 at Washington Adventist Hospital, Takoma Park, due to complications from diabetes and congestive heart failure. He was 70 years old.

In December, Thomas and his wife Margaret would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. McAndrew was born in Kingston, PA., one of triplets born to Thomas J. and Mary McAndrew. His sister died shortly after birth, and his brother, Patrick William survived. Both brothers grew up in Wilkes-Barre, PA., and shortly after graduation from high school, each joined the Air Force. He was preceded in death in 1984 by his brother. Ultimately, in the early 1950s Mr. McAndrew was stationed at Bolling Air Force Base, and like many others heard about a beautiful treed community called "Greenbelt." Upon traveling to Greenbelt, he immediately look to the community. In 1955, he and his wife purchased their home at 2-M Eastway, where they continued to reside at the time of his death. While on Eastway, the McAndrews raised their six children, all of whom attended Greenbelt area schools.

He was honorably discharged from the Air Force. In 1958 Mr. McAndrew joined John Hancock and then Nationwide Insurance companies. In 1962, he opened McAndrew Insurance Agency, establishing his first office on Centerway, in the space now occupied by Chef Lou's and a portion of Generous Joe's. He then relocated to the lower level of the Greenbelt Professional Center, 115 Centerway, shortly after it was built. After 25 years in insurance sales, he retired in 1979. Not one to sit still, he founded Greenbelt Window and Paint Co., Inc., a company that provided replacement vinyl windows and painting services. He operated Greenbelt Window & Paint Co., until his death.

Throughout his many years in Greenbelt, Mr. McAndrew was actively involved in a variety of activities and could be seen walking around the community on a daily basis. As a local businessman, he often sponsored Little League Baseball teams, Miss Greenbelt contestants, and contributed toward other events. As an avid swimmer, he could be found at the outdoor swimming pool, or more recently the new Aquatic and Fitness Center. He was a devoted swimmer and well known among Recreation Department staff members. He was also actively involved in Greenbelt Homes, Inc., (GHI) in the 1960s and 1970s.

Mr. McAndrew was a long-time member of St. Hugh's Catholic Church, its former Holy Name Society, as well as a member of Greenbelt American Legion Post #136.

Mr. McAndrew is survived by his wife of 49 years, Margaret Anne (Rooney) McAndrew, of Eastway and children, Thomas Joseph McAndrew, Jr. (Mary), of Bowie; Mary Anne Scott, of Greenbelt; Margaret A. Jones (Ross), of Reidsville, N.C.; Michael McAndrew (Karen), of Ridge Road; Patrick McAndrew

(Linda), of Periwinkle Court; and, Kathleen Legendre (Scott), of Eastway. He is survived by seven grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews.

Visitations were held at Gasch's Funeral Home, Hyattsville, where a prayer service was conducted by the Rev. Thomas Crowley, pastor of St. Hugh's Catholic Church. A separate memorial service was conducted by members of American Legion Post #136, led by Chaplain Jackie Shabe-Rocheford. After a mass of Christian burial at St. Hugh's Church, Mr. McAndrew was interred at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery, Hanover Township, Pa.

It was Mr. McAndrew's wish that in lieu of flowers, donations be sent to the National Multiple Sclerosis (M.S.) Society in honor of their daughter, Margaret.

Our Neighbors

Condolences to News Review staffer Eileen Farnham whose mother died last week.

Best wishes to Barbara Johnson and Bob Kepert of Ridge Road who were married on June 8 in a 1950s style wedding complete with poodle skirts and ducktails. Great fun!

Kevin Skolnik, son of Steve and Lola Skolnik and a 2000 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, was inducted into the Circle of Scholars, a new distinction by the University of North Carolina (Asheville). Skolnik, a sophomore majoring in ethics of social institutions, is one of 12 outstanding freshmen and sophomore honors students recognized for their dedication and active participation in the program.

A speedy recovery to Denise Parker who is home recovering from surgery. Denise is the wife of Chef Lou at the Center. So if you stop by the shop to see Lou and he isn't there, he's at home caring for his wife. He'll be back soon and hopes his customers will understand.

Spring Concert at Mishkan Torah

The Mishkan Torah choir will offer a spring concert on Sunday, June 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the synagogue, 10 Ridge Road. The music includes selections in English, Hebrew, Yiddish, and Ladino (a dialect of the Sephardic Jews who lived in Spain and Portugal before the Inquisition) and cover a wide range of time periods, styles, composers, and traditional and non-traditional melodies. There is a fee charged.

Mishkan Torah is an unusual, folksy synagogue, built brick by brick in the early 1950s by the members, with the help of other Greenbelters. The congregation continues to maintain the facility personally. On Sunday mornings, parents, friends, and Hebrew school children see the volunteers at the coffee klatch serving bagels and scrambled eggs for those who would like to stop for breakfast.

Three and a half years ago one of the members started a choir. For the first few months there were only five singers, but now the Mishkan Torah Choir consists of 28 members, a large number for a synagogue with only 150 member families. The choir consists of nine men and 19 women, ages 15 to over 40, among them a high school student, teachers, businessmen and women, professional musicians, and retired people. One of the members is the rabbi's wife. No audition is required to join, and the singers help each other learn the music and improve their singing.

The repertoire of the chorus has grown gradually. Three years ago the group performed one song at the High Holidays, then two Chanukah songs three months later. Performances increased, commemorating Israeli independence day and Holocaust remembrance day. Finally, in June of 2001 the choir presented its first full concert.

CENTER PLAN

Greenbelt, overall population, particular household types, household income, consumer spending patterns." He added, "We'll want to get a very detailed look at the characteristics of the Roosevelt Center."

Goldberg described the methodology as meeting with each of the storeowners and tenants, using certain standard questions - "which of course you will answer and then you'll give me the real answers" - to get their ideas and concerns, as well as the "benefits and detriments" of their businesses. She gave her e-mail address - jgoldberg@mrea.net - for anyone who would like to share ideas or concerns.

Intercept surveys will also be conducted at different times during the week. "We will have people on the street doing the surveys, shoppers, visitors, what do they want to see, what do they want to see more of, what don't they want to see, what would draw them here more frequently, how often do they come . . . broken out by age and income levels, and family fabric." The study will show actual sales, and hopefully identify what makes Roosevelt Center a special place, as well as what are the constraints.

Theater

Carney will develop statistical data on the theater, determine how it "stacks up" as a cinema, and look at what programs to pursue and what costs would be entailed.

Councilmember Tom White mentioned that visibility is an issue for Roosevelt Center. Mayor Judith Davis spoke to the topics of marketing and promotion.

Gwen Vaccaro of Pleasant Touch wondered how to penetrate the office parks, reporting that she had had little success. Kate Terrell of Greenbelt Video was interested in how success will be defined. In response to council's comment that the theater seemed to be getting good crowds, Paul Sanchez replied that they'd had only one bad week in recent months.

Andy Carruthers cautioned that Greenbelt is "unique and anomalous" and that "boiler-plate solutions" should be avoided. He further stated that Greenbelt is an "unusual place and that usual solutions are not going to work."

White commented most people are "looking for a place within their town as a gathering place, a focal point. We have a place."

Science Web Site For Kids, Teachers

The Agricultural Research Service (ARS) has now made it easy to know when something new is posted on the agency's popular web sites for kids. Kids and teachers can now sign up for e-mail alerts that arrive whenever a new story is posted at Science for Kids or its Spanish-language equivalent, Ciencia Para Niños.

The web sites are geared mainly for kids age 8 to 13 and are designed to nurture an interest in science by explaining, often in playful ways, how science affects everyday life and why it can make an interesting career.

The English and Spanish sites can help educators, as well as kids, with science, language and computer usage. For kids, it's just plain fun. On the home page of each site, a landscape of familiar and odd images invites kids to explore stories about ARS scientific research on nutrition, plants, insects, animals and other topics. Each site offers more than 50 different fun-filled and informative stories and features.

In the center of the home page stands Dr. Watts, the guide who stands ready to answer questions kids have about agricultural research.

Science for Kids is on the Internet at:

<http://www.ars.usda.gov/is/kids>
Ciencia Para Niños is at:

ERHS Graduates 700 Students at Capital Centre

by Mary Moien

Over 6,000 parents, brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles, grandparents and friends jammed the seats at the Capital Centre (USAirways Arena) on May 29 to cheer on the nearly 700 Eleanor Roosevelt High School seniors as they graduated. Among the local dignitaries were Mayor Judith Davis, City Councilmember Edward Putens, and outgoing school board representative James Henderson. Former Principal Gerald Boarman returned for the graduation, telling the students he missed them and was proud of them.

The guest speaker was John E. McLaughlin, deputy director, Central Intelligence Agency. He jokingly told the students that he had been invited because they knew that the speech would be short, as the CIA never wants to tell people anything. He told them that times are now different for their graduating class and that they may have a chance to change the world. Security was tight in the building possibly due to the presence of the guest speaker.

Peter Nilson was the valedictorian and Richard Henrikson was the salutatorian. Sixty-five students were recognized on the Row of Honor meaning that they had achieved a grade point average of 4.0 or better. Also recognized were more than 40 seniors seated in the Row of Distinction (3.8 grade point average or better). Over $19 million in scholarships was awarded to the graduating seniors.

Boarman and Student Government Association officers presented the Student of Character Award to Jasmine Murrell. It was announced at that time that ERHS had been named a National School of Character.

Juneteenth Festival at Greenbelt Park

Greenbelt Park will present a special event entitled "Juneteenth Summer Festival" on June 15, noon till 5 p.m. Rain date is June 22. The original Juneteenth was a celebration of the ending of slavery in Texas two months after the end of the Civil War. People have maintained this celebration through the years. Greenbelt Park will present universal family-oriented entertainment, natural exhibits, and musical groups in celebration. There will be clowns, face painting, hay rides, wildlife exhibits, and exhibits by environmental and community/municipal organizations. Also featured will be the 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry Co. B, Kung Fu demonstrations, children's stories by Baba C, and Billy Redwing Tayac, magic shows by "The Paranormal Manipulator," Damion Joyner, and music by the Fred Foss Youth Orchestra and Fertile Ground band.

This will be a free event in the Sweetgum picnic area of the park. For information, call 301-344-3944.

Roosevelt Students Win Scholarships

Two Eleanor Roosevelt High School students were among 13 Prince George's County public school students who received scholarship awards from Project Excellence. Celebrated syndicated columnist Clarence Page of the Chicago Tribune will be the featured speaker at this year's gala.

Rachel Elliott received the Steve & Barbara Newby Scholarship Award, which is a four-year scholarship worth up to $130,000.

Tiffany Brown was a $10,000 Project Excellence Scholarship Winner.

Shukoor Ahmed Files for Delegate

Shukoor Ahmed of Bowie, CEO and founder of the Internet start-up www.Statedemocracy.com, has decided to run for the Maryland House of Delegates rather than the state Senate he had previously considered. In the 1998 primary, Ahmed finished fourth in the race for three delegate seats. In a press release he said that he couldn't compete with the "big spenders" who had entered the senate race. Ahmed holds a master's degree in public policy.
